

NipeX Joint Qualification System

NipeX Joint Qualification System

Overview

NipeX Introduction

The Nigerian Petroleum Exchange (NipeX) is an electronic one-stop transaction centre developed to improve on value procurement in the oil and gas industry and institutionalise world-class contracting processes in Nigeria. It is the amalgamation of the joint qualification system and the e-marketplace.

The NipeX Joint Qualification System (NJQS) offers supplier management and procurement services for Nigeria's oil and gas industry. It is aimed at increasing visibility, efficiency and transparency in the contracting and procurement processes used across the industry.

The NipeX JQS offers comprehensive supplier information through an easily accessible on-line database.

NipeX JQS is a key tool used by oil and gas industry buyers to identify and select current and potential suppliers.

NipeX JQS replaces the need for repetitive internally approved vendor lists and eliminates costly duplication of effort in the prequalification process.

Why is NipeX JQS good for the oil and gas industry?

The NipeX JQS: The NipeX JQS system will be used to source suppliers for any type of purchase ranging from one-off purchases to contract and framework agreements, from simple goods and services to supported services and major works

- It applies an industry standard approach that promotes consistency and transparency in the prequalification process for Nigerian based contractors/suppliers
- It guarantees cost-savings for purchasers and suppliers by eliminating duplication of activities in the prequalification process
- It improves business relationships through performance discussions through workshops

Benefits for buyers...

- Extensive reference source for supplier information
- Range of supplier screening tools for prequalification e.g. The product and service code
- Up-to-date supplier information on the NipeX portal
- All supplier data displayed in industry standard format
- Easily accessible supplier information, at any time, via the internet

Benefits for suppliers...

- Easy, cost-effective way to communicate capabilities to buyers
- Standard industry format for easy buyer access
- Market exposure to Purchasers within the oil and gas industry
- Ability to update company information on-line in a secure environment, at all times
- You can update your information on-line in a secure environment, at any time

NJQS registration and pre-qualification

Registration is the first step towards becoming an oil and gas industry supplier. The next step involves each supplier completing a pre-qualification questionnaire.

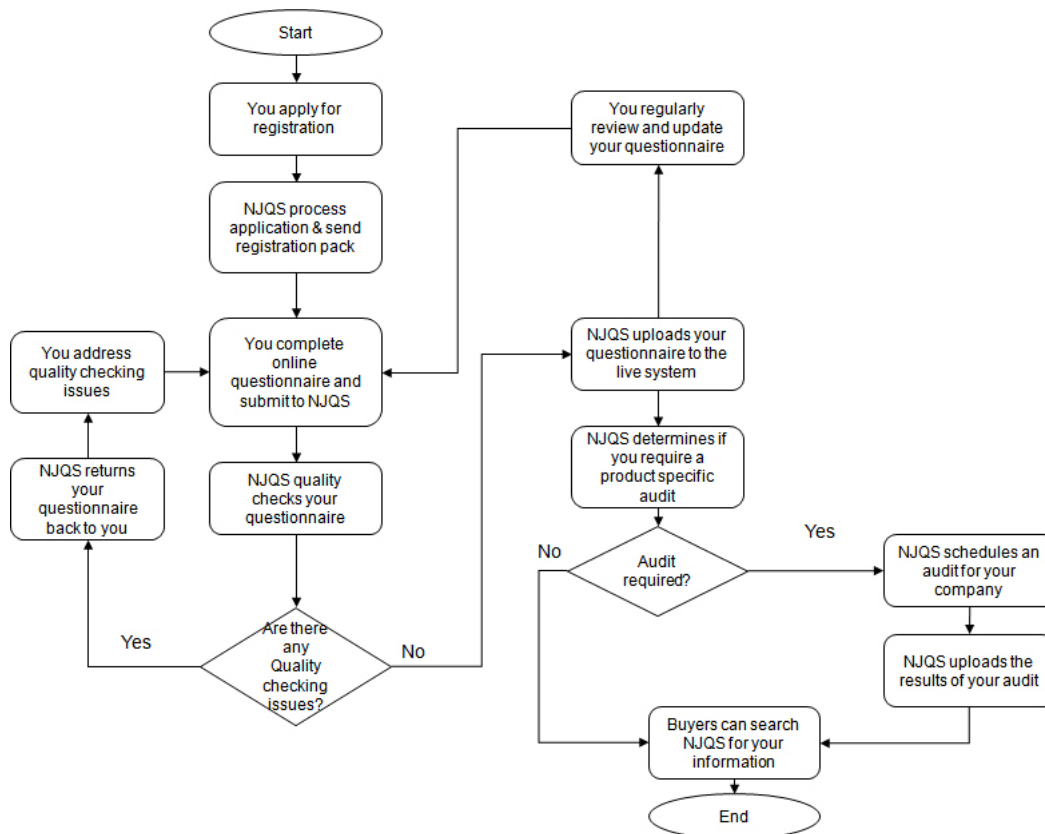

This information allows NJQS to begin to evaluate for the pre-qualification process.

Both buyers and suppliers shall pay fees as set by the Steering Committee. Some companies may wish to register as both a buyer and a supplier, and will be required to comply with confidentiality restrictions.

How does it work?

1. Once NJQS receives a supplier's application and payment, login details and instructions on how to fill in the pre-qualification questionnaire are sent to suppliers.
2. Suppliers complete and submit the NJQS prequalification questionnaire.
3. NJQS reviews the information and notifies the supplier of any areas requiring further clarification.
4. NJQS carries out a final review before the data is released onto the 'live' system, where it can be viewed by registered buyers. At the same time, suppliers will receive confirmation that registration has been successful.
5. NJQS determines which suppliers will be required to undergo a product specific audit to assess their capability to supply a product or service they have pre-qualified for. Suppliers will receive notification of the audit protocol and a choice of dates for the audit.
6. Suppliers will be reminded periodically to update their information on the system.

Suppliers can update their company information as and when necessary, at any time.
